

Twiggi describes the perfect man on 'My Garden'

February 14th, 2022

Recording artiste Twiggi delivers a love song, right in time for Valentine's Day.

The veteran's new single, titled My Garden, produced by Big Feet Records, was officially released last Friday.

"It's a love song where the man has all the attributes that every woman's heart desires. I would call him 'the perfect man', the man who embodies true and pure love, who leaves his woman constantly in awe," the singer explained. A step away from her usual sound, the artiste decided to try something new on this track.

"The final product to me is quite unique, not the usual Twiggi style but worth the experience. It's well mixed and mastered, which is very important to me. Overall, I'm pleased with it," she said. Connected to Big Feet Records through the label's newly appointed music consultant Fitzroy Francis, the collaboration was a seamless one.

"Working with Big Feet Records was delightful to say the least. Professionalism is a big priority with their team. Their word is their bond and I also love the fact that they work with the artiste musically to get the final product of the best quality," the artiste stated.

Prior to My Garden, Twiggi has released quite a few songs, such as the recent track When I Think About You. The September 2021 release, produced by Donovan Germaine, is a classic old-school reggae love song. In addition, she has also released singles like It's Too Late, Do Me Baby and Want It featuring Buju Banton.

While dealing with the setbacks of not being able to travel and tour at this time, Twiggi has been channelling that energy into the studio, with new works in the pipeline, including music videos, promotions and, depending on the pandemic, some events.
