

Twiggi feels the 'vibe' with 'Old Time Love'

April 7, 2016

After 30 years in the music business, singer Twiggi is still unable to spot a hit song during recording. She prefers to allow the public to decide.

"I would not say that I know that I have a hit on my hands because no matter how good a song is it all depends on the promotion put into it and how welcoming the audience is," she said. "But there is a vibe that gives me that confidence that a particular song can take off and be a hit so you stick with it and put the work in to make it go all the way."

Twiggi is looking to go all the way with Old Time Love, her latest song which is produced by Natty Power Records out of Fort Lauderdale.

Old Time Love is on the Thirteen Scroll 'riddim' which is also driven by songs from singer Ed Robinson, deejay Galaxy and singjay Determine.

"This song is not more special than any of my other songs but there is this old school thing about it, the melodious rhythm and the simplicity of the lyrics which everyone can relate to," she said.

Now based in South Florida, Twiggi has been recording since the mid-1980s, establishing herself as a solo and backup artiste.

Her biggest hits --- Tears on My Pillow, Want It/I Want Your Love (featuring Buju Banton), Do Me Baby and It's Too Late --- were produced by Penthouse Records.

Twiggi is also busy promoting Born Again, a song with Sadiki. A video for that track is being shot this weekend in Portmore.
